

An Imaginary Illness

5A Hung Leong, Abel

Early one morning, Jack woke up when he heard his mum shout, 'Jack! Time to wake up for school!'

'Oh gosh! Today is the Maths test!' he sighed. Then suddenly, he cried out that his hand couldn't move. His mum was very worried.

In no time, Mum took Jack to a clinic. The nurse asked Jack what was wrong. Jack answered, 'My hand cannot move!' After she heard what Jack said, she thought, 'The children nowadays are lazier than before. He just wants to pretend that he is sick and doesn't need to go to school.'

After a while, the nurse whispered to Jack. She said she had some special medicine that was only for him. Jack grinned when he heard of this surprising news. He followed the nurse to get the medicine. They walked out of the clinic and walked past a park. The nurse was walking to Jack's school with him! Jack was shocked. He told the nurse the truth and promised he would never do it again.
