

The Wrong Briefcase – Part 2

6A Cheung Cheuk Lun, Clement

After the last robbery, the bald man, the tall man, and the short man went back to the dark room. The bald man in a green checked shirt was so angry. He shouted at the other two robbers, 'Are you serious? How could you not check the sign on the briefcase carefully! You must rob the bank successfully this time!' The tall man and the short man replied, 'Yes, boss!'

Meanwhile, the police were investigating all the most recent robberies in the area. They were looking for a short man with sunglasses and a tall man with a ponytail and a moustache. They got this information from eyewitnesses.

After a week, the robbers robbed the bank again. The tall man changed his clothes. This time, he wore a green and orange striped T-shirt. Also, both robbers wore masks. They rushed into the bank. The tall man pointed a gun at a bank teller and shouted, 'Hand over the banknotes and then put your hands up!' The bank teller shivered and did as she was told. While she was taking out the banknotes, she pressed the panic button. The short man took out a large bag and stuffed the money into it.

Soon, the policemen arrived. Some of them hid behind the door and the wall. Some of them blocked the exit. Then, the robbers noticed the presence of the policemen, so they decided to escape through the vent. While they were trying to escape, they saw some mice. They screamed and ran the other way. Unluckily, they fell off the vent.

When they looked up, the police officers were standing next to them. They were arrested and later jailed.
