

An Unforgettable Experience

6E Ngan Ho Yin, Michael

Dear Peter,

Hello, how are you doing? Are you having an amazing time? I have something exciting to share with you. It was in December.

My mum and I went to Wan Chai for the English Speech Festival. I was a bit nervous, but I said to myself many times, 'You trained so hard. You can't fail this time. This is your time to shine!' Although I practised the poem many times, I was still terrified.

At last, I got the 1st runner-up. I was so happy. It was one of my best memories. I have also learnt that if I work hard, I will succeed.

Love,
John

The Wrong Briefcase – Part 2

6E So Fan, Adrian

In the afternoon, the three robbers met in a secret room. The bald robber was angry and shouted at the other two robbers because the tall man stole the wrong briefcase. The two robbers said sorry to the bald man.

In the evening, a policeman was looking at the photos of the robbers in the police station. He paid special attention to their features.

The next morning, the two robbers went to rob the bank again. This time, they went into the bank wearing masks. They went in, took out their guns and said, 'Don't move!' Then, the tall man with a ponytail pointed a gun at the bank teller and ordered her to put gold bars into the bag. Suddenly, a policeman rushed into the bank. The robbers were so scared. They ran away, but the gold bars were too heavy for them to carry. Finally, the police caught the two robbers. They were sad.
