

26th September, 20XX (Sunday)

Sunny

Yesterday I went on a picnic to Sai Kung Country Park with my class. We were excited and thrilled. We brought sausages, apples and some refreshment such as cola and fruit slushies.

When we were crossing a bridge to find a place to rest, I heard a 'splash'. When I looked at the coursing river, I saw my phone sinking in the water. I felt upset because that mobile phone was my birthday present. We also felt helpless as we needed to use GPS on my phone.

Suddenly, my best friend David pulled out my phone from his pocket. 'That was your walkie talkie toy. Here is your phone!' We all burst out laughing like nothing happened.